Children three daughters:

Anna; wife of Alexander III named Helios (Heli' in genealogy of Luke 3)
Elizabeth (wife of Zacharias ha-Levi: mother of John the Baptist);
Johane (wife of Joachim)

Mattat, ben Levi, Prince of David

His 1st wife, Esther of Jerusalem, became the mother of Heli ben Mattat or Prince Alexander Helios III. He became the father of Mary, the mother of Jesus. Esther of Jerusalem can be identified as the future Maccabee Queen known by her Greek name as Queen Alexandra II, who was the great grandmother of Yeshua (Jesus).

Yet, who were the other step-mothers, of Jesus' grandfather, Heli.

Alexander III Heli' was born by queen Easter of Jerusalem = queen Alexandra of Hasmoneans who married prince Davidic - Matthiatis ben Levi

Jo)Anne 74 (in some literature with Joanna) married Joachim, the Nasi and Davidic prince, and had three daughters;

Escha 75 who married (?) Ptolas

Salome 75 who married Zebedee son were James and John, the

Apostles

Mary 75 who married Clopas son was Simeon ben Clopas, the second Nasi or President of the Ecclesia

The third daughter, Elizabeth was married to a noted priest, Zacharias of the Order of Abijah. It would be John the Baptist who become the grandson of Yeshua III the High Priest, and be heir to the throne of the High Priest. Elizabeth (Virgin Mary's aunt)

Children of: Escha (wife of Ptolas); Mary (wife of Clopas)

Jesus was of Davidian birth from both his mother, Miriam and his father Joseph is the testimony of the Gospels.

The Lucian genealogies of the Davidian descent from Solomon to Heli have now been shown to be the genealogy of Mary, whose father Heli, Eliakim or Joachim was also the brother of Joseph of Arimathea who dared to expose himself politically and laid his nephew, Yahshua, in his own rock hewn tomb on the western slopes of the Mount of Olives.

Yet there was also Heli's other brother, Cleopas, who also was the uncle to Jesus, who walked home with Jesus four days after His crucifixion
