

Ruodhaid by Madelgarde Abbess of Faremoutiers

BACKPEDALING AND EATING CROW!!

I convinced myself and others that Rothilde de Haudre was the missing wife of Ingelman de Hesbaye, which meant that Ruodhaid de Charlemagne by Madelgarde had to be the wife of Mainier de Sens.

I thought I had found the keys to the kingdom, until I started studying the dates. Then everything collapsed, and I proved my theories wrong.

Unfortunately, Sanne has taken my erroneous ideas and run with them, using them to convince himself even further that Rothilde de Haudre and Ruodhaid de Charlemagne are the very same person -- the Abbess of Faremoutiers.

<https://gw.geneanet.org/sanne5?n=de+haudre&oc=&p=rothilde>

We are demonstrably wrong.

Now it has become obvious to me that although Ruodhaid Carolingian was indeed the Abbess of Faremoutiers, she was NOT the wife of Mainier de Sens, and NOT the mother of Gainfroi de Sens. Someone else completely different was.

The REAL mother of Gainfroi de Sens was Rothilde de Haudre, daughter of Duke Haudre, after all; AND NOT one of the daughters of Charlemagne as Sanne claims.

To get the full exposé, you will have to study the following links or memories because Sanne is determined to delete the associated Life Sketches because they falsify his beliefs.

Ruodhaid de Charlemagne by Madelgarde

Ruodhaid, the daughter of Charlemagne and Madelgarde

0790 – 24 March 0852

Ruodhaid by Madelgarde MAY NOT HAVE BEEN the Abbess of Faremoutiers

<https://myspyche.us/Rotrude-by-Hildegard-Abbess-of-Faremoutiers/>

It's also possible that Ruodhaid by Madelgarde had NO spouse and NO children. Somehow, we need to make note of these possibilities on Family Search and Geneanet.

Ruodhaid Was Probably Single and Celibate

Ruodhaid de Charlemagne may have been unmarried and without children.

I spent a day studying the birth date of Ruodhaid daughter of Madelgarde, and I observed that she was born 775 AD at the earliest, and most likely much later.

The following family group sheet has a birthdate of 790 AD.

<https://www.geni.com/people/Ruodhaid-Abbess-of-Faremoutiers/6000000012877633651>

The significance of this isn't readily apparent, unless one has been doing a little studying. You see, I and many others used to believe that Ruodhaid Carolingian was in fact the mother of Gainfroi de Sens and the wife of Mainier de Sens.

HOWEVER, this is physically impossible, if Gainfroi's birthday is true.
According to both Geneanet and MyHeritage, Gainfroi was born 770 AD.

<https://www.familysearch.org/photos/artifacts/79241076?p=20538542>

Do you see it now?

Ruodhaid Carolingian was born five to twenty years AFTER her son was born.

If the dates are right, then Ruodhaid Carolingian was single and celibate and without children. She was probably a nun instead.

One of the most interesting things about Ruodhaid by Madelgarde, the "Abbess of Faremoutiers", is the fact that she MAY NOT HAVE BEEN the Abbess of Faremoutiers.

It's possible that Rotrude, the DAUGHTER of Charlemagne and Hildegard of Vinzgouw, may in fact have been the Abbess of Faremoutiers.

Rotrude by Hildegard Abbess of Faremoutiers

775 to 06 June 0810

Mother: <https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/L4BH-JYR>

<https://bio-psycho-social.com/Rotrude-DAUGHTER-of-Charlemagne-and-Hildegard/>

<http://ultimate-law-of-thermodynamics.com/Roricon-I-comte-du-Maine/>

So, what's the problem?

There are in fact TWO different daughters of Charlemagne who have been given the title, "Abbess of Faremoutiers"!

Two of them!

You see, they can't determine whether the Abbess of Faremoutiers was in fact Rotrude the DAUGHTER of Hildegard of Vinzgouw, or Ruodhaid the DAUGHTER of Madelgarde de Lommois.

The only thing we know for sure is that the Abbess of Faremoutiers was NOT Rothilde de Haudre the DAUGHTER of Duke Haudre de Yonne, as some people insist. It's physically impossible for the DAUGHTER of Duke Haudre to also be the DAUGHTER of Charlemagne.

The information at this link is demonstrably false:

<https://gw.geneanet.org/sanne5?n=de+haudre&oc=&p=rothilde>

At the above link, we observe Sanne erroneously merging Rothilde de Haudre with the Abbess of Faremoutiers to produce a Fictional Hybrid that he's calling Rothilde the Abbess of Faremoutiers or Rotrude the Abbess of Faremoutiers. Then this Fictional Hybrid ends up on Family Search in at least these two spots:

Fictional Hybrid Rotrude de Charlemagne, All Seven Women Merged into ONE

<https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/G9DF-W2N>

Rotrude de Haudre, MERGED INTO ONE HUGE MESS

<https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/GMQM-NMS>

It's obvious to everyone but Sanne that Rotrude the daughter of Charlemagne cannot be the daughter of Duke Haudre; and therefore, they shouldn't be merged into one as if they were. It's bad enough that historians can't figure out whether the Abbess of Faremoutiers was in fact Rotrude by Hildegard or Ruodhaid by Madelgarde. Now we have Sanne merging them with Rothilde de Haudre.

--

They don't know which daughter of Charlemagne was the Abbess of Faremoutiers – Rotrude by Hildegard or Ruodhaid by Madelgarde. Some people have been erroneously merging them into one and treating them as the same person.

You can actually see where Sanne tried to merge Rotrude by Hildegard, Abbess of Faremoutiers, with Rothilde de Haudre at these links:

<https://www.familysearch.org/tree/person/details/LDS9-1MS>

<https://gw.geneanet.org/sanne5?n=de+haudre&oc=&p=rothilde>

It would be unbelievable except for the fact that it really happened.

One falsehood or error always leads to another and needs correcting if we truly want to get things right. Sanne has tried to merge Rothilde de Haudre with every Abbess of Faremoutiers that he can find, including Rotrude by Hildegard and Ruodhaid by Madelgarde. He doesn't seem to look at parentage, life sketches, or dates. He just merges them all together into one.

For some unexplained reason, Sanne keeps merging Rothilde de Haudre with the Abbess of Faremoutiers. The Abbess of Faremoutiers was clearly the daughter of Charlemagne, NOT the daughter of Duke Haudre de Yonne. Most people correct their errors once they are exposed; but, not Sanne. He simply keeps merging every Abbess of Faremoutiers that comes his way with Rothilde de Haudre treating them all as if they were the very same person.

I don't get it, and I never will. But, there's nothing I can do about it besides expose his errors so that others can see them. He just keeps merging seven different women into one and calling them all the Abbess of Faremoutiers completely oblivious to the fact that there was more than one Abbess of Faremoutiers. It's sloppy and wrong, but there's nothing I can do about it.

Fictional Hybrid Rotrude de Hesbaye, All Seven Women Merged into ONE

These are at least three different women that Sanne is trying to merge into one and call the Abbess of Faremoutiers, if you can believe it!

<https://gw.geneanet.org/sanne5?n=de+haudre&oc=&p=rothilde>

And there are more!

--

A convincing case can be made that Rotrude, the DAUGHTER of Charlemagne and Hildegard of Vinzgouw, was NOT the Abbess of Faremoutiers because the Abbess died on 24 March 0852.

Furthermore, a SOLID case can be made that Rotrude, the DAUGHTER of Charlemagne and Hildegard of Vinzgouw, was NOT the wife of Mainier de Sens and the mother of Gainfroi de Sens, because she was in fact the Partner of Roricon I comte du Maine and the mother of Louis abbot of Saint-Denis.

So, that reality greatly increases the possibility that Ruodhaid by Madelgarde was in fact the Abbess of Faremoutiers; BUT, she definitely wasn't the wife of Mainier de Sens NOR the mother of Gainfroi de Sens if any of these birth dates are correct.
